A Discussion of Best Practice Approaches for Accommodating the Behaviours and Psychological Symptoms of Dementia

Challenging behaviours that frequently accompany dementia are often the reason for moving a person with dementia into a nursing home. Behaviour management techniques and non-pharmacological interventions are a way to increase safety and decrease frustrations for a person who can no longer regulate their own behaviour. This interactive presentation will discuss best practice interventions for managing problems like aggression & wandering and increase the capacity for non-pharmacological approaches to person-centered dementia care at home or in residential care.

Kristen Mallard, GNP
Dr. Tim Stultz, MD, COE

‘It’s not just brushing teeth you are improving lives’.

Historically our emphasis in oral health care has been on denture care. In the spirit of it’s not just about dentures, this presentation will highlight how best practices in oral health care can improve quality of life for life.

Pilot or Passenger? A Caregiver’s Role

This session will explore strategies developed with wife Eileen to help her transition to enhance her final years with grace and dignity, tenacity and spirit, understanding and wisdom. This speaker will reference threat of burnout, fear of the unknown, loss of identity and other terrors of disease. Discuss how caregivers, care providers and care takers can collaborate to enhance quality of living (not just quality of life) as aging and dying are part of a celebratory, transformative process, not separate from it.
